

Paragraph 5

What are two benefits, according to Burkeman, of adopting a Stoic-like approach to life?

What is "hedonic adaptation," and how does it work against happiness?

According to Burkeman's logic, how can positive reassurance actually heighten anxiety?

Paragraph 6

How can imagining the ways that things could go wrong turn fear into something positive, in Burkeman's view?