

Special Note For Students:

Please remember, your paper needs to be written from a clinical perspective. For example, conduct an Assessment on your person first by researching their background, family, jobs, etc. Paint me a mental picture of your character. Secondly, conduct your treatment plan. Example, explain to me what services you're recommending, why and how many sessions; what counseling approach or theory do you feel would work best for this individual; The service type (Group or Individual Counseling) and why). Lastly, tell me what your discharge plan will look like. Example, any additional referrals-What other agencies do you think need to be involved with this individual; problems to track, monitoring protocol, random drug testing, obtain a job, supervised visitation, etc. I've provided a brief profile on your person to get you started. Have Fun !!!

Serial Killers From A Clinical Perspective: Theories Behind The Criminal Minds

Andrei Chikatilo: The Butcher

Andrei, the Butcher of Rostov, said, "When I used my knife, it brought psychological relief. I know I have to be destroyed. I was a mistake of nature." He was responsible for sexually assaulting, killing and mutilating 53 women and children between 1978 and 1990 in Russia. After being captured in 1992, he was ordered to be killed by a firing squad in 1994.

