

Child Development

PSYCH 200 4th Edition

Across

- | | | | |
|---|---|--|--|
| 1. Cranky babies with irregular sleeping and eating habits fit this temperamental pattern 5. Operational stage marked by the ability to logically manipulate abstract concepts * 6. Examples are hair color, freckles, and dimples p. 349 8. Close connection between caretaker and child 11. DNA is arranged in this kind of "staircase" 12. Operational stage marked by ability to logically manipulate tangible objects and ideas * 14. Famous linguist's first name p. 275 | 15. Unborn baby between week 3 and week 8 16. Attracts the attention of a newborn * 18. Interacts with environmental influences 22. Inborn predisposition to behave and react in a particular way 24. Prenatal, sensorimotor, one-word, or two-word 25. When combined with "permanence," this term means that an infant will search for a doll after it's hidden 27. Newborn can identify her voice 28. One type of attachment 29. Those of the newborn are keenly attuned to people | 30. Could be teratogen if ingested by pregnant woman Down 1. When high quality, can produce more sociable, better adjusted, and academically competent children 2. Important attachment figure * 3. Made of twisted strands of DNA p. 76 * 4. Piaget, to his friends * 5. The unborn child, after the 9th week 7. Newborn reflex 9. This sense is the least well-developed at birth * 10. Unit of DNA instructions p. 76 | * 13. Organs and major body systems form during this stage 16. Last prenatal stage 17. Piaget's term that described tendency to focus on only one characteristic at a time * 19. Deoxyribonucleic acid p. 76 20. What developmental psychologists study over the lifespan 21. Stage of development after conception and before birth * 23. How chromosomes are arranged p. 76 26. Calm babies that can be readily soothed fit this temperamental pattern |
|---|---|--|--|

* more info. online to answer questions