

Instructions for posting graded Journal Article threads on the Discussion Board

Post Guidelines

- Use the lesson assigned article for the Journal article and the basis of your comments.
- Participation is worth zero to 25 points of the assignment grade
- You will find the initial journal article question once the discussion board is open.
- Answers and comments must be posted before the submission of your Lesson report/article analysis.

- Once the lesson report is submitted, no grading will be completed of answers to the Lesson discussion question.
- To start, In your initial post, you will continue the created thread. After that, the thread will close on the assignment due date, with no exceptions.
- Do not submit a blank post. This will result in a point reduction.
- Your minimum and maximum posts are limited to 100 to 200 words.
- Critical thinking is required.
- Outside sources are encouraged. Post a link to any outside sources.
- Name your post.

- Based on the Lesson Journal Article and Instructor's Thread question, your post can comment from the following list:
- At my internship location, this is accomplished well or not so well. Why?
- I would accomplish by... (your critical thoughts)
- Make certain that you have answered ALL completely.
- Outside references can support your chosen thesis but are not part of the word count. However, are part of a grade.
- The textbook, meaning you must support your opinion with what you read in that chapter to solidify your point of view and use an in-text reference to the chapter.

- Please use standard English with proper grammar, punctuation, spelling, and complete sentences in a paragraph format in your post.

Reply Guidelines (minimum two replies):

- You MUST reply to at least two of your classmates' posts to get minimum credit for participation.
- Type the name of the other student upon whose post you are commenting. For example, "Helen, you are correct about the entrepreneurs giving back to the community. The entrepreneurs contributing 3% of the net profit helped the community's efforts to establish an afternoon program for latch key children....."

- Each reply MUST be at least four sentences (Intro, discussion, conclusion) that add depth to the conversation. Each reply should be substantive and apply critical thinking. Work to stimulate additional dialog and discussion. You are also welcomed to disagree respectfully!

THE QUESTION FROM THE ARTICLE

In your own words, discuss the following statement from the article " We need new relationships, so we start from scratch, becoming something different from what we have been"

Start the meaningful discussion and receive extra credit