

To Rethink Chinese Nationalism, China Must Have It

No. 1 First Part
Let's talk about a positive impact of nationalism

- ① Promotes a sense of identity
- ② Promotes national spirit — ethos — national pride
- ③ Unites People

No. 2 Second Part

Weak

No. 3.1 part
In the late Qing dynasty, government corrupt, → lost the heart of the people
→ No energy from people
→ No energy for government to maintain the national strength

China, during that age, became half colonial country by Western powers

Undermined the Sovereignty of China.

No. 3 Part
Historical Impact
First Aspect

These are the reason that China needs nationalism, to be specific from 3 aspects

No. 3.2 part
The War of Resistance Against Japanese Aggression (Second Sino-Japanese War)

During 1937, the national strength of China was pretty weak

So why China won?

Except, the US joined WWII by bombing Hiroshima affect Japan

China, as a weak country which was also having a semi-feudal and Semi-colonial society, stood firm against Japan's powerful invasion for eight years. That was not easy: one step wrong or one give up, we won't see China now. (So, why?)

Because of the great determination/belief and persistence of Chinese people

To be more specific we won the war by

- ① Having patriotism-centered national spirit
- ② Making it as a full-scale or nationwide war
