

Lowell Textile Town

During the opening of the 19th century, Massachusetts set the ground work for the textiles factory and the new industrial relationships that textiles fostered. Exploitation of women was an early facet of the new system.

Women were the first to organize and Lowell was ground zero in the development.

Lowell Boarding Ho

