

The Presidential disaster declaration process begins with a request from the Governor of the affected State; the response is ultimately determined by the President.