

Assignment:

Application Analysis: Online Communication

This week you will analyze an article published by Mary Burns illustrating how to create an online course that promotes communication and collaboration. Parts may look familiar to what you have experienced so far. Review the article, Designing Effective Online Courses, located in your Learning Materials.

The article discusses ten instructional design strategies that can be used in online learning.

- 1) Summarize the 5 strategies that are or may be used in this course: (discussion, self-directed learning, small group work, project, and collaborative learning).
- 2) Describe how they are or may be used in the course. This assignment requires you to look ahead (not a bad thing to do in any course so you know what is ahead) as well as think back to the previous modules.
- 3) How is communication different in this online learning environment than a traditional classroom? How do you adjust to this communication channel?

Assignment Expectations

Length: 600-750 words

Structure: Include a title page and reference page in APA style. Address