

LAST WEEK'S TOP REVIEWS

THE MOST-READ REVIEWS ON PUBLISHERSWEELY.COM LAST WEEK WERE...

#1 publishersweekly.com/persuasion

#2

publishersweekly.com/persepolis

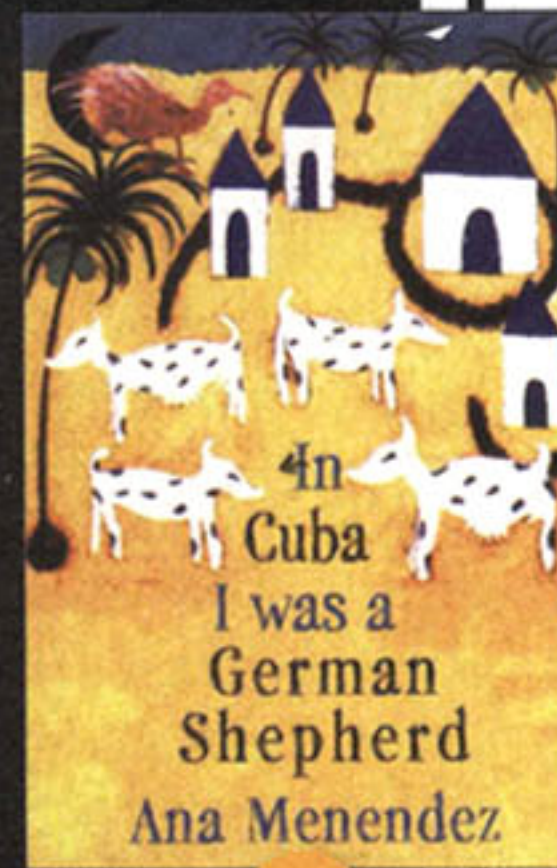

#3

publishersweekly.com/ramphollow

#4

publishersweekly.com/beforewe

#5

publishersweekly.com/germanshepherd

From the Newsletters

Tip Sheet

Alex Higley, author of Old Open, picks 10 essential books of the American West. publishersweekly.com/alexhigley

Children's Bookshelf

James Baldwin's sole children's book returns to print. publishersweekly.com/jamesbaldwin

BookLife Report

A roundup of the best opening lines from titles by BookLife authors. publishersweekly.com/openinglines

Podcasts Week Ahead

PW senior writer Andrew Albanese talks about some of the big politics books on tap for spring 2018 and discusses why the sudden retirement of John Conyers amid troubling allegations of sexual harassment is a blow to the publishing industry. publishersweekly.com/weekahead

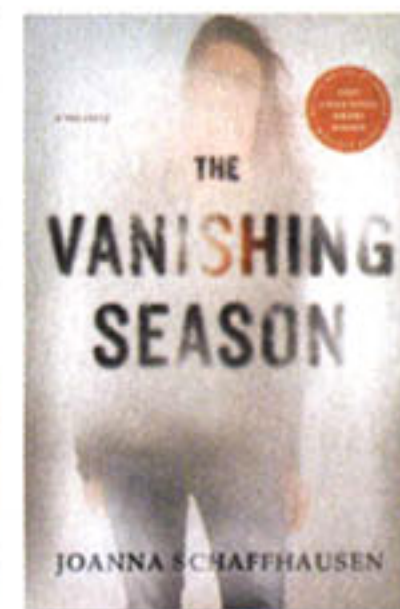

More to Come

The MTC crew responds to the Justice League film (like most fans, the cohorts have been anticipating its release for several years), giving their take on the performances, the action, and the overall reaction to the long-awaited DC blockbuster. The trio also discuss the recent controversy over the new fee structure at Patreon, the crowdfunding platform. publishersweekly.com/moretocome

Blogs ShelfTalker

The logistics of having Santa visit a children's bookstore. publishersweekly.com/santavisit

PW Radio

Author Joanna Schaffhausen discusses her debut novel, The Vanishing Season. And PW children's reviews editor John Sellers recaps the third annual Global Kids Connect conference. publishersweekly.com/pwradio255

publishersweekly.com/jobzone