

Running Head: ① ETHICAL ISSUES 1

ETHICAL ISSUES 4

ETHICAL ISSUES

CPSS/430

February 24, 2019

Ethical Issues

① Ethical issues have been applied in the field of boundary maintenance and management in order to set correlational and correctional setups that are unique in the establishment of the good relations. The chosen ethical issues concentrate on assessing the boundary defilements that need special attention to handle. Some of the of the unique ethical issues that are associated with the boundary maintenance include the special interactions and relationships that are experienced between the police officers and the prisoners. They are governed by strict rules and policies that generally indicate a great power difference between the controlled surroundings. The correction officers differ in one way or the other with the inmates and they particularly show the complexity in an ethical way. The interrelationships between the inmates and the correction officers play an important role in differentiating the special way of development and correction. Good relations can lead to blackmailing incidences as well as other illegal actions that are in one way or the other correctional settings. The inmates are restricted from having sexual incidences but it is generally hard for the correction officers to discourage them from developing love and affection feelings in the correctional build-up. The security officers are unable to develop the distinguishing character between the transference and counter feelings of transference as it is developed in some unique therapeutic manner (Dignam, et al, 2017). The ethical issues are tabled through intervention by implementation of a good relationship between the inmates and the correctional officers. Ethical issues have been applied in the field of boundary maintenance and management in order to set correlational and correctional setups that are unique in the establishment of the good relations. The chosen ethical issues concentrate on assessing the boundary defilement that need special attention to handle.

Sexual interrelations and encounters in the boundary settings have also played a part in the establishment of the ethical issues base. There are cases where the inmates are fond of sexually seducing their fellow offenders and at other times, they are known of sexually offending and seducing the members of staff. The inmates are fond of conning and manipulating data and information in order to expose their colleagues and counterparts into frequent vulnerabilities and risks that are generally used to enable them show the so-called sexual attention and relationships especially on the interested parties. The problems associated with these types of ethical issues is that they form a hard and difficult to tell ethical issue basis that are hard to alter. The effects of not maintaining clear and proper boundaries between the correctional setting are accompanied by exposure to risk and vulnerabilities for the interested parties. Generally, the inmates are exposing their staff members into personal and organizational issues especially through the weak boundaries (Grady, M. D., & Strom-Gottfried, 2018). It would be hard for the security personnel to expose the inmates who they have an affection and sexual seduction together. Maintaining a good relationship between the inmates and the correctional officers have an impact in reduction of potential threats and minimization of the violations. Boundary violations between the members of the correctional team and the inmates have an effect in the correctional setting as it ruins the strengths and abilities at the workplace. The impacts of not keeping up clear and appropriate limits between the restorative setting are joined by introduction to hazard and vulnerabilities for the invested individuals. For the most part, the prisoners are uncovering their staff individuals into individual and authoritative issues particularly through the powerless limits. It would be hard for the security staff to uncover the detainees who they have a warmth and sexual enticement together. Keeping up a decent connection between the prisoners and the prison guards have an effect in decrease of potential dangers and minimization of the infringement. Limit infringement between the individuals from the remedial group and the detainees have an impact in the restorative setting as it ruins the qualities and capacities at the working environment. Illegal and unprofessional behaviors are also known to ruin the boundary relations as they ruin the potentials of correctional services (Welskopf, 2015). They present and expose the inmates and the correctional staff to risks and susceptible to vulnerabilities that leads to major issues and ethical compositions in the setup. To handle the ethical issues and problems presented above, it would be essential to present the correctional services and personnel with legal and professional mechanisms that control and present the boundary violations. All the ethical issues presented in a unique manner will help solve the issues as well as deal with the relations established in a sexual attention and affection.

① Creation of awareness and other reasons for the inmates will play an important role in preventing the conflicts and the issues between the inmates and the correctional members of staff. Setting aside the agreeable limits and boundaries have an effect on working together with the agreeable limits that comply with the social life of the employees. The health care providers and psychiatrists should work effortlessly to meet the supervision of the inmate's relationships with the correctional staff.

References

- ① Dignam, J., Fagon, T., & Ax, R. (2017). ① Correctional mental health ethics revisited. Correctional mental health handbook, 39-56. Grady, M. ① D., & Strom-Gottfried, K. (2018). ① No easy answers: Ethical challenges working with sex offenders. Clinical Social Work Journal, 39(1), 18-27. Welskopf, C. S. (2015). ① Nurses' experience of caring for inmate patients. Journal of Advanced Nursing, 49(4), 336-343.

Products may be purchased only in countries where Nortel Networks makes these products available for purchase and use.

The following Hardware and Software items shall have the corresponding warranty periods:

Carrier Products	Hardware	Software
DMS, Optical Networks, Wireless product families and CCMIS	12 months from ship date	12 months from ship date
Alteon and Shasta products	12 months from ship date	90 days from ship date
Carrier Data Products (Passport, Bay and Micom products)	See current Nortel Networks price list.	See current Nortel Networks price list.
All other product families not listed (unless specified otherwise in writing)	90 days from ship date	90 days from ship date

Enterprise Products	Hardware	Software
Data Products (e.g., Access CN, Advanced Video, Backbone CN, Baystack, Business Communications Manager, Contivity, Instant Internet, Net ID, Passport LAN and WAN Solutions)	See current Enterprise Data Products Product Catalog	See current Enterprise Data Products Product Catalog
Portal Solutions Products	90 days from ship date	90 days from ship date

This Warranty Matrix may be revised by Nortel Networks from time to time.

ANNEX A TO THE PURCHASE AND LICENSE AGREEMENT - AFFILIATES

The following company has been identified by Cross Telephone Company, L.L.C as a potential purchaser (hereafter referred to as "Affiliate") under the terms of the Agreement. Each Affiliate agrees that terms and conditions specified in the Agreement shall govern all Orders submitted by such Affiliate and accepted by Nortel Networks during the applicable Term of the Agreement. Cross Telephone Company, L.L.C. absolutely, irrevocably and unconditionally guarantees the performance and payment of every Affiliate issuing Orders and/or otherwise acting under this Agreement and any Contract created thereby.

Affiliate Name:

Location:

CROSS WIRELESS, L.L.C.

Warner, Oklahoma

CROSS WIRELESS, L.L.C.

By: [Original Signature on File - RICH1]
Name: V. David Miller II
Title: President
Address: 704 3rd Avenue, Warner, OK 74469
State of Incorporation: OK
Tax I.D. Number: 73-1601306
Date: 9/2/2003

CROSS TELEPHONE COMPANY, L.L.C.

By: [Original Signature on File - RICH1]
Name: V. David Miller II
Title: President
Address: 704 3rd Avenue, Warner, OK 74469
State of Incorporation: OK
Tax I.D. Number: 73-0638767
Date: 9/2/2003

① Student paper	95%
Student paper It would be hard for the security staff to uncover the detainees who they have a warmth and sexual enticement together. Keeping up a decent connection between the prisoners and the prison guards have an effect in decrease of potential dangers and minimization of the infringement. Limit infringement between the individuals from the remedial group and the detainees have an impact in the restorative setting as it ruins the qualities and capacities at the working environment. Illegal and unprofessional behaviors are also known to ruin the boundary relations as they ruin the potentials of correctional services (Weiskopf, 2015).	Original source It would be hard for the security staff to uncover the detainees who have warmth and sexual enticement together Keeping up a decent connection between the prisoners and the prison guards affects the decrease of potential dangers and minimization of the infringement Limit infringement between the individuals from the remedial group and the detainees has an impact in the restorative setting as it ruins the qualities and capacities of the working environment Illegal and unprofessional behaviors are also known to ruin the boundary relations as they ruin the potentials of correctional services (Weiskopf, 2015)

① Student paper	100%
Student paper Dignam, J., Fagan, T., & Ax, R.	Original source Dignam, J., Fagan, T., & Ax, R

① Student paper	100%
Student paper Correctional mental health ethics revisited, Correctional mental health handbook, 39-56.	Original source Correctional mental health ethics revisited Correctional mental health handbook, 39-56

① Student paper	100%
Student paper D., & Strom-Gottfried, K.	Original source D., & Strom-Gottfried, K

① Student paper	96%
Student paper They present and expose the inmates and the correctional staff to risks and susceptible to vulnerabilities that leads to major issues and ethical compositions in the setup. To handle the ethical issues and problems presented above, it would be essential to present the correctional services and personnel with legal and professional mechanisms that control and present the boundary violations. All the ethical issues presented in a unique manner will help solve the issues as well as deal with the relations established in a sexual attention and affection. Creation of awareness and other reasons for the inmates will play an important role in preventing the conflicts and the issues between the inmates and the correctional members of staff.	Original source They present and expose the inmates and the correctional staff to risks and susceptible to vulnerabilities that lead to major issues and ethical compositions in the setup To handle the ethical issues and problems presented above, it would be essential to present the correctional services and personnel with legal and professional mechanisms that control and present the boundary violations All the ethical issues presented uniquely will help solve the issues as well as deal with the relations established in sexual attention and affection The creation of awareness and other reasons for the inmates will play an important role in preventing the conflicts and the issues between the inmates and the correctional members of staff

① Student paper	100%
Student paper No easy answers: Ethical challenges working with sex offenders. Clinical Social Work Journal, 39(1), 18-27.	Original source No easy answers Ethical challenges working with sex offenders Clinical Social Work Journal, 39(1), 18-27

① Student paper	100%
Student paper Nurses' experience of caring for inmate patients. Journal of Advanced Nursing, 49(4), 336-343.	Original source Nurses' experience of caring for inmate patients Journal of Advanced Nursing, 49(4), 336-343

① Student paper	91%
Student paper Setting aside the agreeable limits and boundaries have an effect on working together with the agreeable limits that comply with the social life of the employees. The health care providers and psychiatrists should work effortlessly to meet the supervision of the inmate's relationships with the correctional staff.	Original source Setting aside the agreeable limits and boundaries affect working together with the agreeable limits that comply with the social life of the employees The health care providers and psychiatrists should work effortlessly to meet the supervision of the inmate's relationships with the correctional staff

1 Student paper 100%

Student paper

ETHICAL ISSUES 1 ETHICAL ISSUES 4

Original source

ETHICAL ISSUES 1 ETHICAL ISSUES 4

1 Student paper 97%

Student paper

Sexual interrelations and encounters in the boundary settings have also played a part in the establishment of the ethical issues base. There are cases where the inmates are fond of sexually seducing their fellow offenders and at other times, they are known of sexually offending and seducing the members of staff. The inmates are fond of conning and manipulating data and information in order to expose their colleagues and counterparts into frequent vulnerabilities and risks that are generally used to enable them show the so-called sexual attention and relationships especially on the interested parties. The problems associated with these types of ethical issues is that they form a hard and difficult to tell ethical issue basis that are hard to alter.

Original source

Sexual interrelations and encounters in the boundary settings have also played a part in the establishment of the base of the ethical issue. There are cases where the inmates are fond of sexually seducing their fellow offenders and at other times, they are known of sexually offending and seducing the members of staff. The inmates are fond of conning and manipulating data and information to expose their colleagues and counterparts into frequent vulnerabilities and risks that are generally used to enable them to show the so-called sexual attention and relationships especially on the interested parties. The problems associated with these types of ethical issues is that they form a hard and difficult to tell ethical issue basis that is hard to alter.

1 Student paper 99%

Student paper

Ethical issues have been applied in the field of boundary maintenance and management in order to set correlational and correctional setups that are unique in the establishment of the good relations. The chosen ethical issues concentrate on assessing the boundary defilements that need special attention to handle. Some of the of the unique ethical issues that are associated with the boundary maintenance include the special interactions and relationships that are experienced between the police officers and the prisoners. They are governed by strict rules and policies that generally indicate a great power difference between the controlled surroundings.

Original source

Ethical issues have been applied in the field of boundary maintenance and management to set correlational and correctional setups that are unique in the establishment of good relations. The chosen ethical issues concentrate on assessing the boundary defilements that need special attention to handle. Some of the unique ethical issues that are associated with the boundary maintenance include the special interactions and relationships that are experienced between the police officers and the prisoners. They are governed by strict rules and policies that generally indicate a great power difference between the controlled surroundings.

1 Student paper 99%

Student paper

The effects of not maintaining clear and proper boundaries between the correctional setting are accompanied by exposure to risk and vulnerabilities for the interested parties. Generally, the inmates are exposing their staff members into personal and organizational issues especially through the weak boundaries (Grady, M. D., & Strom-Gottfried, 2018). It would be hard for the security personnel to expose the inmates who they have an affection and sexual seduction together.

Original source

The effects of not maintaining clear and proper boundaries between the correctional setting are accompanied by exposure to risk and vulnerabilities for the interested parties. Generally, the inmates are exposing their staff members into personal and organizational issues especially through the weak boundaries (Grady, M. D., & Strom-Gottfried, 2018). It would be hard for the security personnel to expose the inmates who have affection and sexual seduction together.

1 Student paper 96%

Student paper

The correction officers differ in one way or the other with the inmates and they particularly show the complexity in an ethical way. The interrelationships between the inmates and the correction officers play an important role in differentiating the special way of development and correction. Good relations can lead to blackmailing incidences as well as other illegal actions that are in one way or the other correctional settings. The inmates are restricted from having sexual incidences but it is generally hard for the correction officers to discourage them from developing love and affection feelings in the correctional build-up.

Original source

The correction officers differ in one way or the other with the inmates and they particularly ethically show the complexity. The interrelationships between the inmates and the correction officers play an important role in differentiating the special way of development and correction. Good relations can lead to blackmailing incidences as well as other illegal actions that are in one way or the other correctional settings. The inmates are restricted from having sexual incidences but it is generally hard for the correction officers to discourage them from developing love and affection felt in the correctional build-up.

1 Student paper 92%

Student paper

Maintaining a good relationship between the inmates and the correctional officers have an impact in reduction of potential threats and minimization of the violations. Boundary violations between the members of the correctional team and the inmates have an effect in the correctional setting as it ruins the strengths and abilities at the workplace. The impacts of not keeping up clear and appropriate limits between the restorative setting are joined by introduction to hazard and vulnerabilities for the invested individuals. For the most part, the prisoners are uncovering their staff individuals into individual and authoritative issues particularly through the powerless limits.

Original source

Maintaining a good relationship between the inmates and the correctional officers has an impact on the reduction of potential threats and minimization of the violations. Boundary violations between the members of the correctional team and the inmates affect the correctional setting as it ruins the strengths and abilities at the workplace. The impacts of not keeping up clear and appropriate limits between the restorative setting are joined by an introduction to hazards and vulnerabilities for the invested individuals. For the most part, the prisoners are uncovering their staff individuals into individual and authoritative issues particularly through the powerless limits.

1 Student paper 98%

Student paper

The security officers are unable to develop the distinguishing character between the transference and counter feelings of transference as it is developed in some unique therapeutic manner (Dignam, et al, 2017). The ethical issues are tabled through intervention by implementation of a good relationship between the inmates and the correctional officers. Ethical issues have been applied in the field of boundary maintenance and management in order to set correlational and correctional setups that are unique in the establishment of the good relations. The chosen ethical issues concentrate on assessing the boundary defilement that need special attention to handle.

Original source

The security officers are unable to develop the distinguishing character between the transference and counter feelings of transference as it is developed in some unique therapeutic manner (Dignam, et al, 2017). The ethical issues are tabled through intervention by the implementation of a good relationship between the inmates and the correctional officers. Ethical issues have been applied in the field of boundary maintenance and management to set correlational and correctional setups that are unique in the establishment of good relations. The chosen ethical issues concentrate on assessing the boundary defilement that needs special attention to handle.