I did not mark every grammatical error found in this essay because there are simply too many!

Further you have not written a coherent essay that flows from one idea to the other.

You don't state claims and then provide evidence from the story, but rather you make blanket statements that may or may not have to do with the text. Further, you have included two other texts in your Works Cited page, but did you use these sources in your paper?

I highly recommend reaching out to the writing center prior to submitting your final paper.
