

Given the presence of a theoretical relation between programmatic strategy and outcome, the evaluation criteria for acceptable programmatic performance may be established such that, priority may be assigned to the problem area; and, actors (stakeholders/nations/regions) in essence, all groups associated with the problem and its resolution may be identified.

Chapter 5 – A Closing Note

Since it is on the basis of explanations offered that have demonstrated credibility that Action plans should be devised, deviation from execution of those God-honoring plans is a discrepancy that requires correction. Use of analytical tools can drive appropriate consideration of causes of conditions. And, it is on the basis of explanations offered that have demonstrated credibility that Action plans should be devised. Proceed to Exercise 5 - in order to determine the ideal configuration required to address the scope and severity of problems within the jurisdiction²⁸

EXERCISE 5 - CONFIGURATIVE RESPONSE PLANNING

- 5.1 Identify functions most appropriate to serve the community
- 5.2 Identify percentage of effort required for each census tract given the social indicators
- 5.3 Identify the scope and sequence of services needed
- 5.4 Identify the most appropriate resource distribution and by whom

²⁸ "Ideal" does not automatically assume public sector intervention as required as other approaches may prove more effective.
