SLP 1

30 / 30

Overall Feedback

No revisions were requested for this assignment. The initial grade stands.

The requirements for this first SLP are rather basic and this submission addresses them all. Nicely done.

On a related note, I'd recommend that you review the DBA handbook to ensure that your proposed topic will meet the requirements for the DSP. It would also be beneficial for you to review some recently published DSP's to gain a more complete understanding of what an acceptable DSP accomplishes both overall, and in each chapter. As it exists now Chapter 1 is missing some key items and will require a great deal of revision and expansion to address the requirements. Getting this started now will save you a lot of time later on in the program!

Please review the assignment instructions for this first SLP. You are to provide an annotated version of your full introduction chapter; not an annotated bibliography. Let me know if you have any questions before you attempt to revise and resubmit. Remember, I'm here to help.

It would be difficult to ask for anything more than what you have delivered in this first discussion. Your initial post clearly addresses all of the questions asked and your responses to peers help to advance the conversation. Very impressive work here!

Case 2

Overall Feedback

Some notable improvements are seen in this resubmission. Keep it up!

I've put this grade in as a placeholder to allow you time to review the feedback provided on our Case 1 submission and resubmit this assignment once that feedback is incorporated. If you would rather this submission be reviewed as-is for a final grade, I am happy to do that as well. Just send me an email and let me know either way.

Cheers,

Trent

Overall Feedback

I think I see where you are attempting to go with this submission and while heading in the right direction it lacks the necessary detail / depth of analysis required for doctoral level work. i.e. you have not developed an actionable strategy to eventually craft your literature review chapter of the DSP. How will you determine search parameters? How will you find relevant journals / databases? How will you determine quality of materials you might find? How will you ensure that you are not missing key seminal sources in your review? All of these key questions, and many others, need to be a part of a successful strategy.

I've provided a variety of resources in the Cyber Cafe to help you get started in crafting your lit review strategy and would point you towards those so you do not fall too far behind in the upcoming weeks. As for writing, the submission is not quite 'scholarly' and there are some rather significant readability issues that could easily be addressed by a thorough and complete proofreading.

Source materials are rather sparse and do not meet the minimum requirements for doctoral level work... There are entire series of handbooks around scholarly research techniques that should be used to direct your research efforts.

Overall, you are heading in the right direction but need to focus on 'depth' and moving beyond the very superficial. Take your time and present your absolute best work. Proofread your document... If you don't want to read your own work why would anyone else want to read it? Let me know how I might be able to help!

See feedback in the attached rubric. With a few small changes to ensure you are addressing what the assignment requires this would have been much more successful.

Module 4

Case 4 0 / 50

SLP 4 0.1 / 30

Overall Feedback

There seems to be some confusion on this assignment as your submission is not an 'outline' of what will be chapter 2 of your DSP. Specifically, it does not address the assignment instructions of: 'This will consist of the headings in the chapter, and a brief description of each paragraph under each heading. This description should include the sources you plan to be using in that paragraph, as well as notes on any further material that you have not yet been able to obtain.'

I'm happy to allow a resubmission of the assignment within the next 3 days if you would like. If not, I'll consider this a final submission and update the grade to reflect. Just let me know either way.
