

INSTRUCTIONS FOR WEEKLY PAPERS:

Weekly "Reflection" Papers - The purpose of this assignment is to reflect on the material in the readings for the respective week by sharing your interpretation of a primary topic. You may relate it to a case that you have either worked with or a family experience of your own. Although it may sound informal with the title of "reflection" paper, please write professionally. 1-2 pages single-spaced. No work cited necessary.

Narrative Family Therapy and Gender and Sexuality Issues

Chapter 14 discusses how narrative therapy serves clients by helping them share their stories and then assists them in reexamining the stories by which they live. It brings out negative, internalized narratives so that they can be replaced with more effective, healthy narratives.

Chapter 13 discusses the historical, biological, social, and psychological issues that differentiate sexuality among genders in diverse relationships. Sexual behaviors and dysfunction are also addressed.
