Honesty: The Perfect Mate

This bar graph shows us statistics between the students in the WRC 1013 class. The bar graph represents the most desirable characteristic that the students are looking for in a mate. There are ten different characteristics that the students were able to choose from. Intelligence, attractiveness, humor, kindness, and athleticism are a few of the selections that the students could choose from. 36% of the students chose honesty as the most desirable characteristic. Also, honesty is the common characteristic that males are looking for in a mate; it ranked at 37.5%. It is also the common characteristic that females are looking for; it ranked at 33.3%. On the other hand, 80% of the students chose rich as the least desirable characteristic. People do not care about the material objects. That is why the students chose honesty instead of their mate being rich.
