

VI. Respecting other religions.

Example: Respect other religions point of view and hear it. Not being rude and avoid criticizing. If there is a debate respond respectfully without hearing the other side.

VII. Conclusion.

Respect is the act of showing regard for other people. Being respectful is something very important to have because it will build a strong co-operating society. As an international student I have to show respect towards the people around me, like my family, friends, and other people in the society. Moreover, I have to respect the rules and the other religions, so I can represent my country and my religion in the best way.
