

I provided a lot of notes about how to integrate sources into an essay. You need to review those notes because how you integrate sources is not effective.

Also, this essay needs a better set up with arrangement and organization. I don't see a thesis and I'm not sure how you plan to define freedom. What are the examples. What are the claims?

You need a title for your paper.

Freedom, a word which we hear on everyday basis, a word which is being used in many different part of our everyday life. There are many different kind of freedoms, i.e. freedom of speech, freedom from slavery, political freedom, freedom from borders, spiritual freedom, freedom of information, self-freedom and financial freedom.) Each individual or certain group of individuals look at the concept of freedom in a totally different way. Hadenius suggests that "Each Individual or certain group of individual look at the concept of freedom in a totally different way". For some of us, a freedom could be freedom based on going anywhere we want to go at any time or the freedom to do anything we would like at any given time. This essay will try to explore the idea behind freedom and how it affects our daily life. I will also look at the freedom in a very literate way and try to describe what it is and how it has developed over the past few years by the help of examples from different part of the world (Hadenius 27). In order to explore the concept freedom, let me describe the literate meaning of the word freedom, ~~let me describe the literate meaning of the word freedom.~~ Pam Seabright has tried to define in one of two ways: "The power to control

Seabright declares that "democracy is the true kind of freedom". There are various countries in the world now who have democracy, such as, Denmark, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Ghana, Greece, Iceland, India, Ireland, Israel, Italy and many others. I will use an example from United States of America. The current democratic system in US embraces its several commitments in a way which
