

essay/ website. Obviously you can change your mind on your subject later, but use the assignment is to condense your thoughts together about the theme in the text and begin to argue about how the text provides evidence of said theme.

Annotated bibliography of five texts (2 academic/ 2 multi-media)- You need to do some outside research for this essay. Since we have already been to the Library and a Librarian has already helped us hone our research skills, I will require more sources for this assignment. With these skills, you must find three academic sources to support your Proposal/Essay's overall argument and at least two pieces of multi-media that will help your website construction in some way.

Essay 3- Web Based Argumentative Essay/Presentation- (@4-6 Pages Printed)

This essay/ website can be thought of as a capstone to our course or an argumentative essay using media as sources. In this project, you will be asked to compose an argument and provide visual media/ and arguable material as evidence for your thesis.

What does this mean? You have to use Weebly, WordPress, Dreamweaver, iWeb, or whatever website engine you can find to create a web-based argumentative essay on any topic in class.

This essay can explore any argumentative topic, with approval of instructor. There are many topics for consideration, including:

Capstone Ideas

- What is the point of dystopic texts?
- Rhetorical Analysis of a Media Text (movies, songs, tv show)- What is the narrative arguing? How is the text arguing this/ proving a point? Is it dystopic? Why?(can be about a piece of media we have not examined in class, as long as it is cleared by the Professor).
- Rhetoric of Advertisements
- Novel vs. Film adaptations- How does the meaning of the text change in other media?(V for Vendetta)
- Novel vs. Graphic Novel-Use of rhetoric within a text to tell a story.

Academic (Boring) Argumentative Essay Ideas