

The Black death was originally transmitted into and through Europe from Asia beginning with the mongols all the way through Italy ^{which was} the first destination in Europe. Then it began to spread in a clock wise movement ^{the rest of} through Europe. The main source of transmitting the black death in my opinion was through conquest and trading. The Black death began its movement from ~~the~~ the central ~~of~~ Asia at first. The Mongolians conquest movement through asia ~~to~~ and their ways of dealing with their enemies lead to the spreading of the black death. They used to ~~through~~ ^{bury} the rotten dead bodies that were remaining from the battles they were having onto their enemies territories which lead the plague to appear and get transmitted and by their interaction with their enemies they got the disease through their land. Then ~~it~~ comes the part of trading which the silk road took a huge ^{portion} ~~part~~ in. The silk road ~~was~~ took
