IF I had a greatest wish. It would be No bullying in School. This is my greatest wish because No one would get hurt or made fun of in school. When people bully people the person that gets bullied becomes a bully. A whole bunch of kids don't want to be bully even the mom and dad's don't want their kids to be bullied. No more bullying means more peace.

In second grade I was bullied one day this kid called me names pushed me and even tried to punch me. I told the principal and she took care of it. I stood up for myself without having to hit him back.

I learned that by being good to every one in the school more people start being nice to each other when you do something good you get something good in return. If you do something bad you get something bad. More people will like you if you treat them like you want to be treated.

- ① It was very windy when my sister Lisa and her best friend Megan were walking home from school together, as we live next door to them. Megan has no brothers or sisters and her parents work full time, so she's at our house a lot. Lisa had basketball ^{that night} at 4:30 and it ^{was} 4:05.
- ② Megan always came to watch. I only came to watch because my friend Michelle is the referee. Michelle is there early so I come before mum does. Anyway, Michelle and I were waiting for them to come. "I just remembered, mum's working." "So where's Lisa and Megan?" Michelle asked me. "They'd be on their way here." I replied with a worried look on my face. "There team has enough players so we'll get started."

The End

I got a shot in my hip. It hurt. I was limping. Because I could not straighten my leg. I got a shot because I had strep throat. It hurt to swallow. Strep is going around. My doctor said she had to have 15 kids get a shot. You should drink lots of fluids. So you won't get sick. If you cannot swallow and your throat is puffy, then you have strep. You should get lots of rest. And get a shot. Because the shot will make you better faster than the medicine.
