A photograph may have a relatively uninflected structure but have recessive mental space.