

EC410: first paper

Connecting the dots.

Every major historical event has ramifications that shape our society and our world. These events might be technological, such as the Industrial Revolution, institutional failures such as the Great Depression, political failures such as wars, or the formation of international institutions such as the GATT trade agreements to name a few. Select as many of these events – post-Roman Empire - as you think will not exceed nine double-spaced printed pages (max!) and discuss their beginnings, their effects on the world at the time, and the aftermath for those of us alive today.