

Journal 12

The musgrave ritual which was now narrated by Holmes who gives a much different impression because now, there is a bit of information that goes on through Holmes's mind that many considered a mystery. But one thing that does not change is the brilliant mind of Holmes. His deductive reasoning hasn't changed which still to this day surprises me. I would agree that there is not as much understanding because observations are limited since Holmes does not describe himself. Watson is always writing about Holmes which is more observational than Holmes observing himself.

part 2

- more knowledge of the police force during that time
- the nation's financial state
- clothing attire during that time period
- Sherlock's past
- architecture
- the type of jobs