

April 12

The teacher started the lesson by handing students reading handouts, myself included, and asked the students to do the reading passage. He explained new vocabulary to students first then he asked them to read and do comprehension questions when they're done.

We did not do much speaking or pronunciation today. However, the teacher asked me to sit beside a group of 3 students who weren't participating in class. Then, asked me to talk with them about their concerns when they take the IELTS.
