

Unit VII Essay

Diabetes

Type II diabetes, also called noninsulin-dependent diabetes mellitus, accounts for approximately 90% of all cases of diabetes mellitus. In a well-developed essay, explain why the following would be used in diabetes management:

- Sulfonylureas
- Biguanides
- Thiazolidinediones

Your essay must include the following elements:

- An introduction with an argumentative thesis statement
- The reasons why the above would be used in diabetes
- Evidence from cases, research, etc.
- A conclusion

Your essay should be approximately two pages in length and use correct APA format, including references and citations for all outside sources. You are required to use at least one outside sources other than your textbook.