

FINAL EXAM PAPER (100 POINTS)

Pick one of the topics from the myriad discussions we had in class relative to Cognition and Learning as they related to Critical Pedagogy and Globalization. Develop a theory about this topic (the more comprehensive the theory the better). You will need to describe your theory in clear detail, cite research and finding that support your contention, argue how it is better than the theories in the areas of cognition and learning. The theory should include relevant history, research, and conceptual analysis of the issue or problem. The expectation is that you will develop a capacity for deep synthetic integration and use resources from various disciplines and sources. A full literature search on a given topic is required. This theory paper is expected to draw from course materials, and should be about 20-25 pages, double-space, not including the bibliography. The paper will also be presented in class (power point presentation). Additional instructions will be provided by the instructor.